

Please be on alert for a phishing scam specifically impacting FNB Bank customers.

The scam begins with a text message that appears to be from an FNB Bank (may say First National Bank, which we have not used for several years) associate requesting that you verify a transaction. If you respond to the text, you'll receive a phone call from an individual claiming to be from FNB Bank, and the caller ID displays a legitimate FNB phone number. The impersonator asks for personal information such as your date of birth, mother's maiden name, email address or Digital Banking user ID, then uses this data to move money from your accounts.

- FNB Bank does not use a text system to verify debit card transactions and we will never call you to request passwords or security information.
- You should never share your account information, user ID's, passwords or other sensitive information with an unsolicited caller, text, or email.
- Phone numbers on Caller ID's can be spoofed and should not be accepted as legitimate.

If you receive something like what is described above, we recommend you call your local branch or the main office and ask to speak to someone about your account. Let that individual know what happened and see if they can assist you with the request. Never respond to the text, or email directly as this could lead back to the scammer.
